A BYSTANDER'S NOTES

FIELD FOR A COLORED NOVELIST.

PREVALENCE OF FALSE IDEAS IN REGARD TO ACTUAL Racial Conditions in THIS Country—Cases in Point.

Two books which are being published, or are about to be published, are worthy of attention. They are not novels in the accepted sense, but are, in a peculiar sense, true novels; not as to the matter they contain, but as to the impression that they leave behind them. They are of an especial interest to those who are interested in the development of the art of literature.
A DISTANTER'S NOTES.

knowing the fact that the number of people throughout the country who can say that they have travelled in the United States is small, I am sure to bring the question of the distance of the country to the top of the agenda. The fact that the distance is large is known to everyone, but it is not so well known that it has gone beyond being a matter of fact to being a matter of opinion.

The distance is great, and this is the result of the fact that the country is divided into two distinct parts. One part is the east, and the other is the west. Between these two parts there is a large body of water known as the Mississippi River, which acts as a barrier. As a result, the distance between the east and the west is great.

This distance is not only great in terms of miles, but it is also great in terms of time. It takes a very long time to travel from one part of the country to the other.

In conclusion, I must say that the distance of the United States is a matter of great importance, and that it is a fact that should not be overlooked.

And this is directly the position that the writer has taken. He says: "We have a legal and moral right to live in the region of our choice, and to govern ourselves as we please. It is a right which has been granted to us by the Constitution of the United States, and it is a right which we must stand up for with the right to rule and control them for our own benefit and the benefit of our children."

Thus, the writer concludes, the "Americanes have a right to live in the region of their choice, to govern themselves as they please, and to protect themselves against any interference from others."

CRACKED HIS SKILL.
Milwaukee, Wis.—Recently on the Brown Field near Brown, Wis., John Johnson and William Lockhart, former champions of the world, put on a show for the benefit of the city of Milwaukee. John Johnson was on the home deck and Lockhart was on the tour deck.
John Johnson, who is considered the greatest boxer of all time, was given a fairly good fight by Lockhart, who is considered the greatest boxer of all time, according to Johnson.

STRIKE BY A BOXER.
Hartford, Conn.—A. Hart, the Hartford boxer, is expected to win the world title in the coming year. He has been practicing for the last three months and is expected to win the title.

WHEN THE HOG GOES.
Ames, Iowa—The hog is the most important animal in this country. It is not only the most important animal in the country, but it is also the most important animal in the world. The hog is the most important animal in the world, and it is also the most important animal in the country.
